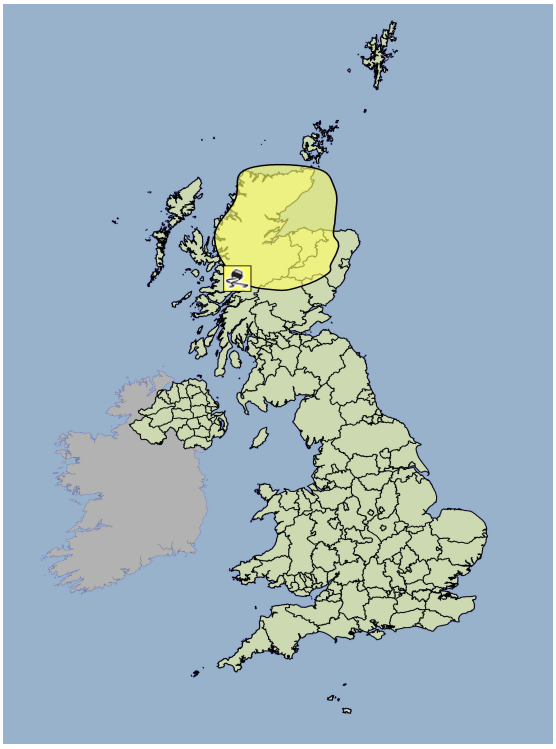
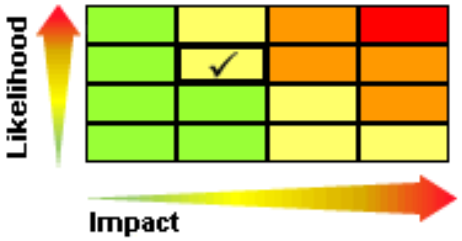
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A warm front coming up from the south is meeting air chilled by overnight cooling. As rain falls into this cold air, it could freeze on contact with the frozen ground to give ice.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 04:00 on Mon, 17th Feb 2014 until 11:00 on Mon, 17th Feb 2014

Outbreaks of rain will affect northern Scotland this morning. These will fall on frozen surfaces leading to a risk of ice on untreated roads and pavements. In addition some snowfall is likely, mainly on higher roads, with local accumulations of a few centimetres possible.

The public should be aware that some disruption to travel is possible and road users are advised to take extra care.
